LinkedIn Top Skills 2016

-1-

As it is shown, the Cloud & Distributed Computing skill ranked #1 in global of 2016, and by clicking the skill on the dashboard, we can see the countries highlighted in yellow that indicates that this country has ranked the skill, and we can say that all highlighted countries ranked this skill #1 as the global except China, in which ranked this skill #4 which below the average global rank by 3 points.
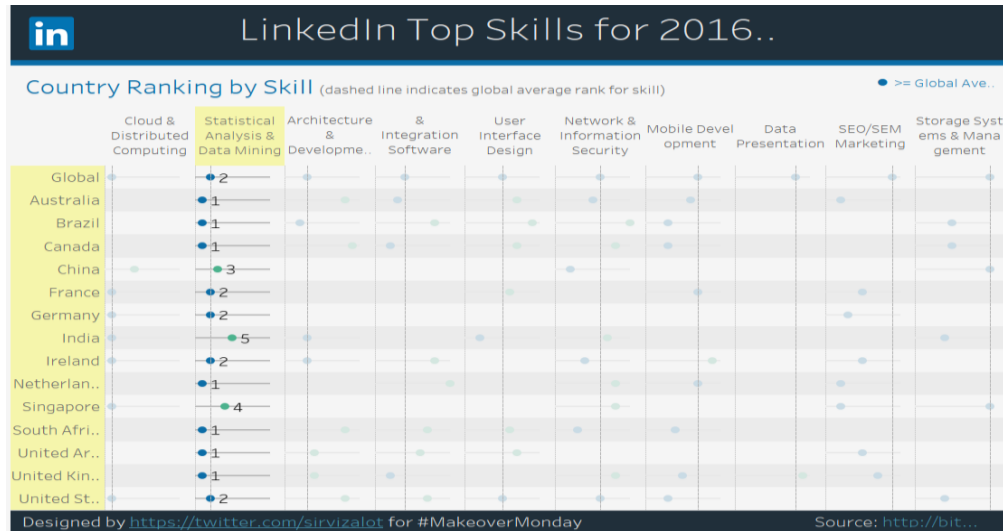

-2-

By clicking Australia, we can see the highlighted skills in yellow that ranked in this country. We can see that in Australia, the Statistical Analysis & Data Mining ranked #1 which is above the global rank by 1 point since its ranked #2 in global. The Architecture & Development Framework ranked #8 which is below the global average rank by 5 points since it ranked #3 in global. Middleware & Integration Software skill ranked #3 which is above the global average rank by 1 point since it ranked #4 in global. User Interface Design skill ranked #7 which below the global average rank by 2 points since it ranked #5 in global. Network & Information Security is ranked #5 which above the global average rank by 1 point since it ranked #6 in the global. Mobile Development ranked #6 which is above the global average rank by 1 point since it ranked #7 in the global. Lastly, the SEO/SEM Marketing which ranked #2 which above the global average rank by 7 points since it ranked #9 in the global.

By clicking the Statistical Analysis & Data Mining skill in the dashboard, which ranked #2 in the global, all 14 countries ranked this skilled since all countries are highlighted in yellow. 7 countries have ranked this skill by #1, which is above the global by 1 point, these countries are Australia, Brazil, Canada, Netherlands, South Africa, United Arab Emirates, and the United Kingdom while 4 countries ranked it by #2 as the global, these countries are France, Germany, Ireland, and United States. The remaining countries ranked this skill below the global average rank, in which China ranked it #3 which is below the global by 1 point, India ranked it #5 which below the global by 3 points, and Singapore ranked it #4 which is below the global by 2 points.